

NATIONAL PUBLIC WORKS WEEK

Kick-off Celebration

Ever tapped out a rhythm on trash cans? Banged pot lids together for a beat? Then...

Abu the Flutemaker

will captivate you with two free performances using the outrageous and whimsical musical instruments he has created from recycled materials. Members of the audience, of all ages, will be invited to come up on stage and participate in his backup band.

Abu will perform at 1:00pm and 2:30pm on Sunday, May 19th rain or shine at

The Baltimore Public Works Museum

Located on Pier 7 of the Inner Harbor, President and Eastern Avenues

Each performance will last one hour, and families with children are encouraged to attend. In addition, everyone is invited to take advantage of FREE ADMISSION to tour the Museum with it's many unique and educational exhibits.

Join in the Fun!

Presented by Mayor Martin O'Malley, George L. Winfield, Director of Public Works, and the Baltimore Public Works Museum.
